

Sponsored by IPS, School of Government at VUW, the Wellington Cathedral, St Peter's on Willis and 'Faith in the City'

Ethics at Work: Challenges and opportunities in working ethically in the public, corporate, professional and voluntary sectors - an all-day workshop led by Simon Longstaff of St James Ethics Centre, Sydney

Friday 30 March 2012

8.45am - 4.45pm

Loaves and Fishes, Wellington Cathedral, Hill St, Wellington

To register contact ips@vuw.ac.nz or (04) 463 5307

Workshop cost: $225 (including teas and lunch)

There are a limited number of reduced cost places for the voluntary sector.

This workshop is designed for leaders and future leaders in the public, corporate, professional and voluntary sectors.

In the first part of the workshop, Dr Longstaff will provide an overview of the challenges and opportunities in organisational ethics, and this will be supplemented by insights from the local Wellington and New Zealand scene. In the second part, he will offer a framework for the implementation or further development of ethical practice in participants' own organizations. He sees good leadership as defining a culture of 'common intent' rather than mere compliance.

Simon Longstaff's distinguished career includes being named as one of 'True Leaders' for the 21st century by the Australian Financial Review's 'Boss' magazine noting "...I don't know one CEO or chairman in corporate Australia who has not worked with Simon Longstaff...".

Dr Longstaff has a PhD in Philosophy from Cambridge University. Prior to becoming the inaugural Executive Director of St James Ethics Centre in 1991, he worked in the Northern Territory in the Safety Department of a BHP subsidiary, lectured at Cambridge University and consulted to the Cambridge Commonwealth and Overseas Trusts.

Dr Longstaff will also give a free lunchtime seminar from 12.30pm - 1.30pm in Wellington Cathedral. For more details see <http://ips.ac.nz/>

Read more about the work of St James Ethics Centre at <http://www.ethics.org.au/>

